Fine and DiPietro Win Top Academic Honors

"It's been a very rewarding experience and will certainly have a great influence on my future," stated Janis DiPietro, Salutatorian Class '71, when discussing her years in the East Brunswick school system. "The majority of the teachers I've had were really interested in having the students learn their subject. I feel that is so important." On the high school level, Janis feels, "... the informality of the school as a whole contributed to learning greatly."

Paul Fine, Valedictorian, Class '71, agreed that the "relaxed atmosphere" made school less of a chore. He added that, "... the administration has been more receptive to student needs ..." which was how such systems as OPEN came about. Janis thinks that OPEN also relieved many day to day pressures which removed the "need" to cut classes. Paul expressed, "I believe, contrary to popular belief, that students did not abuse the open system but rather used it to break up the regimentation of the regular school day." After discussing OPEN Janis and Paul commented on the weak and strong points of EBHS. It is interesting to note that they both felt the science and math departments were the best in the school and that the english department needs improving. Paul does admit that, "The new english curriculum is a step in the right direction." When speaking of weak areas Janis pointed out that there was, "too much emphasis placed on grades," while Paul cited the guidance office. "The guidance office too often loses contact with the students. They try to solve the students' problems without knowing the ramifications."

An aspect of school life that Janis is concerned about is how the students have divided themselves into their own cliques and are now prevented from knowing each other. "I hope that there will be more activities in the future that involve every type of student," she announced.

When asked about his interests or hobbies Paul mentioned soccer, golf and reading. Janis enjoys basketball, tennis, swimming and reading. This fall, Paul will be attending Haverford College, majoring in medicine and Janis will be at the University of Massachusetts, majoring in pre-med.
